TELEGRAPHIC

[Exclusive Despatches to the Times.]

General Hooker in Washington—General McClellan declares he has not Resigned—Reported Removal of General Curtis—Heavy Movement of Troops to the Interior Grant—Rebel View of Affairs at the Southwest.

WASHINGTON, 15th.

General Hooker was in this city to-day, on official business.

WASHINGTON, 15th.

The Marshal of the District of Columbia has seized the real and personal estate of the following named individuals:

G W C Dunnington, Dr Cornelius Boyle, Dr Garnett, son in law of Ex-Governor Wise, Maj C S Wallach, Lawyer Randolph, Francis Hanna, Commodore Forrest, Wm Scields, Rd M Mark, Martin L Smith, Samuel Lee and others.

In addition to the above cases, there is other valuable rebel property to be attached in this city.

General Carrington, US Attorney, is rapidly maturing proceedings against the property of all persons who have left their homes and joined the so called Southern Confederacy. He expects to have nearly all completed by the first Monday in June next, the return day fixed by order of the Court. He is acting under orders of the Attorney General of the United States, issued several months ago. There has been no unnecessary delay. Much difficulty exists in obtaining proof on which to base legal proceedings.

The army has been mainly paid to the 1st of March last. Some of the paymasters were paying off troops during the time that General Hooker was on the south side of the Rappahannock, and during the progress of the battle, the paymasters had to gather up their funds for safer position.

NEW YORK, 15th.

The Burnside Rifles attempted to desert in a body from Staten Island on Wednesday. A fight ensued—one was killed and others wounded. Twenty eight of the mutineers escaped, but were afterwards captured and put in irons at Governor's Island.

At the presentation of the complimentary resolutions of the Washington City Council, yesterday, to General McClellan, he declared that the rumor of his resignation was false.

WASHINGTON, 15th.

The President to-night received from the headquarters of the army of the Potomac, an original letter of Jeff Davis, addressed to one of his Colonels, in which he speaks despondingly of affairs in the Southwest and on the Rappahannock. The letter was found in a rebel camp in Fredericksburg, and is dated May 23d.

General Lee's headquarters are in Fredericksburg. General Barksdale of Mississippi is in command there. The rebels are remarkably well clothed this spring. An officer of Barksdale's staff informed one of our surgeons that a steamer loaded with clothing had lately arrived at a southern port, and 60,000 suits had been distributed among the army in Virginia.

A Missouri an influence, headed by Senator Henderson, has procured the removal of Gen Curtis from his command, and the appointment of Gen Schofield in his place.

An independent command will immediately given to Col Gilpatrick.

Commanders of regiments whose terms of service have expired express the opinion that more than one half the men will re-enlist. In several instances before leaving the field whole companies have enrolled their names for enlistment, to be mustered in thirty days after being discharged.

A few days ago, a number of slaves belonging to John Minor Botts came within our lines at Union Mills. Mr Botts requested the commandant of the fort to return them to him, as he was a loyal man. The commander immediate y telegraphed to General Heintzelman to know what course to pursue. Col Lothrop of the General's staff replied that they were free the moment they entered our lines and could not be remanded to slavery.

NEW YORK, 15th.

It appears from the semi-official account of General Averill's expedition that previous to the battles of Chancellorsville, Jackson was at Gordonsville.

WASHINGTON, 15th.

A large party of the leading Union League of Philadelphia, headed by Morton McMichael and Mayor Gilpin, arrived here today. It is supposed that steps are to be initiated whereby home forces shall be organized under government auspices, to repress disloyal demonstrations and organizations in the North. Philadelphia has already moved in the matter.

Among the prisoners recently sent south to be exchanged were Mrs Mitchell and her daughter, arrested by General Rosecrans for aiding and assisting the escape of rebel prisoners in this department, and the Miss Ford who was concerned in the abduction of Gen Stoughton and others of Mosely's guerilla band.

SAN FRANCISCO, 13th.

Steamer Orizaba sailed this forenoon for Havana with 100 passengers and $845,000 in treasure for England and $800,000 for New York.

CAIRO, 14th.

Our troops all the way from Memphis to Young's Point are moving to reinforce General Grant.

Judge Kellogg who left General Grant's headquarters on Thursday last says the reports of a fight at Clinton is untrue. General Grant will endeavor to cut the Railroad between Vicksburg and Jackson, and a battle is expected in the vicinity of Black River Bridge.

The Jackson, Miss., Appeal says General Bowen's loss at Bayou Pierre was about 1000. The rebel dead and wounded were left on the field.

General Tracy, Lieut Col Pettis and Major Tuckerman were killed, and Col Garnet and Major Horley were severely wounded.

The Vicksburg correspondent of the Appeal takes a gloomy view of matters. He says Gen. Grant's movements deceived both our people and the military here.

General Bragg was at Atlanta, Georgia, on the 2d.

A despatch from Bloomfield says the railroad connection has been re-established between Richmond and Fredericksburg.

COLONEL STRAIGHT'S RAID INTO GEORGIA.—The Murfreesboro correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, quoting the Chattanooga Rebel's account of Colonel Straight's command in Georgia, adds to it the following important intelligence:

Thus ends the rebel account of this to be famous raid. Colonel Straight and ten men were indeed captured; but rebel trophies in Alabama and Georgia are not yet ended, for the same paper has the following—

"Alarming News. The express messenger and others from Rome, Ga., last evening, report another raid into Northern Alabama and Georgia by Yankees 5500 strong. The 65th Georgia regiment, returning to Bridgeport, was stopped and ordered back to Rome, mounted on captured horses and led to meet the invaders. It was believed the Yankees were at Talladega, Ala., eighty miles south of Rome. Captain Forrest, brother of the General, was mortally wounded in the fight near Rome."

The rebels say our forces burned every grain of corn they could find between Courtland and Tuscumbia, and destroyed all the provisions. They also burned the military college at Lagrange. The Union troops have evacuated Tuscumbia.

It has been decided in an English Court that photographers cannot publish copies of copyright pictures. A London printseller obtained a verdict of £100 damages against a photographer for infringing his copyright of a picture called "The Light of the World," in the copyright and engraving of which he had expended ten thousand dollars. The chief object of the trial was to test the question.

An immense cargo of fifteen inch guns arrived at the Brooklyn Navy Yard a few days since. They are intended for the light draught Monitors in course of construction. It is understood, however, that a new arm is about to be introduced into the service. The Dahlgren guns, it is said, are to be removed, and an entirely new thirteen inch gun, capable of using seventy five pounds of powder at a charge, is to be substituted. This is to be done before the attack on Charleston is renewed. By means of this change a single effective shot may be relied upon to breach Fort Sumter.—N. Y. Post

AN APPEAL TO THE DEMOCRACY. Mr. J. L. O'Sullivan, formerly editor of the Democratic Review, and Minister to Portugal, and now resident in London, has written a letter to Prof Morse on what he conceives to be the immediate duty of the Democratic party. It is, to take ground in favor of "peace at all hazards;" of allowing the border States to determine their own position; of repudiating the war debt; of convoking a northern convention for settling the political relations of the States; of cutting down the representation of New England to about one-sixth its present extent; and of inviting the seceded States "to hold a simultaneous and similar convention at some contiguous point, with a view to the interchange of negotiations directed, on the part of the North, toward some possibility of a reconstruction of an improved, voluntary and new confederation," or failing that, (and Mr. O Sullivan thinks there would be such a failure,) to make the best arrangement possible. This formidable programme has probably been elected by the prominent stand which Prof. Morse has been observed to take as a promoter of "sound political information" in the interests of the peace Democracy.

New Publications.

We have received from Messrs. F. A. Brown & Co., No 1 Cornhill, Boston, copies of the following excellent books for the young—published in Boston by Walker, Wise & Co., and for sale in Bangor by Messrs Bagley & Co., and E. F. Duren:

"The Pioneer Boy, and How he Became President," is a beautiful book of 300 pages by William M. Thayer, the popular author of "The Bobbin Boy"—"The Poor Boy and Merchant Prince," &c. The work is a familiar narrative of the success in the youthful life of President Lincoln, written in the attractive style of a relation of the personal daily adventures and progress when a boy—full of interesting anecdote, and incident. The object is to show by what honest and earnest endeavor Mr. Lincoln rose to his high position from a depth of almost poverty.

"Spectacles for Young Eyes"—by Sarah W. Lander—comprise in twelve volumes pleasant and attractive personal narratives of observation and experience in Boston, St. Petersburg, Pekin, Berlin, Rome, Venice, London, Paris, Moscow, Zurich, Rio Janeiro and Washington—the volumes handsomely bound and illustrated.—That before us is upon "Pekin," giving a narrative irresistable to young imaginations of travels and observations in the mysterious "Celestial Empire."

A PARIS Correspondence from Fredericksburg says that the Friday previous to our retreat to the north side of the Rappahannock, while a party of the 43d New York were digging among the ruins of the Bernard House, near Fredericksburg, they discovered, buried beneath them, in a chest, $100,000 of Confederate money, placed there, doubtless, by the owner, for safe keeping. There has been no lack of Confederate currency in that region at since.

A History of the Efforts for "Peace."

We occupy a large portion of our columns today, with an able and conclusive article from the New York Tribune, in refutation of the copperhead charge that the Lincoln Administration has rejected all offers for peace It shows on the contrary, that the slaveholding leaders have rejected all honorable propositions

President Lincoln, Editor Brooks and Peace.

The New York Express assails the President as hostile to any other than a disunion peace in a long tissue of disloyal sophistry and malignant falsehood, closing as follows

And now, as to "Peace." "Peace Conventions" like etc Mr Brooks's position has been well defined in numerous public meetings here and elsewhere, For two months after the New York, New Jersey, and the West re-elections, Mr Brooks believed Peace and re-Union possible, but the Administration spurned all ideas of Peace and so denounced all advocating peace and so spurned all proffers of peace sent to them unofficially from the South that the South itself appeared in mad, mistaken defiance, and withdrew all peace or suggestions Mr Brooks accepts answers in proportion to their distrusting Administration of will to authentically decide as to separation of the Union as much as Jeff Davis does—he is ever ready to act and Jeff Davis

We propose to show by reference to conspicuous facts and unquestionable documents the matter, unanswerable untruth of this assault, and then ask the public to judge how far its utterance at this crisis falls short of overt treason

I During the Winter of 1860 61, the Legislature of Kentucky—(which had just given her electoral vote to Bell and Everett, whom Mr Brooks professed to support while Mr Lincoln though a native of the State received but 1 864 votes of her 91 acres out of a poll of 145 261, and had not a single supporter in any branch of her government)—in view of the perils to our country then imminent from Secession and Disunion upon a calm survey of the whole ground, decided that the only fit and adequate remedy for our national ills was to be sought through the assembling of a National Convention—not an irresponsible gathering of President makers such as has been frequent in these latter days but a meeting of wise and ripe sages officially delegated from the several States, like that which framed the Federal Constitution, and charged with the duty of examining and revising its great charter with a view to the restoration of national harmony and tranquility Mr Lincoln then President elect, at once gave his hearty and a just but ineffectual to this Kentucky overture and sought for it support among his influential friends, with such energy and success that when the Peace Congress assembled soon after at Washington they were prepared not merely to entertain but if necessary, to propose it After waiting in vain for Kentucky to do so Governor Roger S Baldwin (Republican) of Connecticut, introduced it—as follows

Whereas Unhappy differences exist which have alienated from each other sort one of the people of the United States to such an extent as seriously to disturb the peace of the land and impair the fraternal and affectionate feeling of the several States which are vital to the existence of the Government with the enjoyment of its constitutional powers and rights and

Whereas The Legislature of the State of Kentucky, has made application to congress to call a Convention for proposing amendments to the Constitution of the United States

This conference does therefore recommend to the several States to unite with Kentucky in so application to Congress to call a Convention for proposing amendments to the Constitution of the United States to be submitted to the Legislatures of the several States, or to conventions therein for ratification as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by Congress in accordance with the provisions in the fifth article of the Constitution

The most comprehensive and efficient "Peace" overture was sustained by the Republican delegations from eight States but voted down by the compact strength of every pro slavery delegation present that of Kentucky included—If was subsequently renewed by the Hon Amos Tuck of New Hampshire, in a shape so pacific and inviting as to secure for it the approval of one pro-slavery delegation, but the Slave States still opposed it, and it was voted down—nine States Yea, eleven States Nay The Slave States represented would assent to nothing that did not involve a consent by the Republicans to the extension of Slavery over all the Federal Territories—A consent which they were precluded from giving not merely by the r convictions, principles, and pledges, but by their solemn and unanimous affirmation in the Chicago Platform that there was no power in our government to legalize Slavery in the Territories

II On the 4th of March then coming Mr Lincoln was inaugurated President, and his Inaugural Address was one continuous, despairing appeal for Peace—Aware that the Southern people had been deceived into a belief that his election and administration menaced the security of their domestic institutions, he commenced as follows

"Apprehensions seem to exist among the people of the southern states that, by the accession of a Republican Administration their property and their peace and personal security are to be in danger. There never has been any reasonable cause for such apprehension Indeed, the most ample evidence to the contrary has all the while existed, and open to their inspection. It is found in nearly all the public speeches of him who now addresses you. He has never recanted them And more than this, they are placed in the platform for my acceptance, and as a law to themselves and to me, the clear and emphatic resolution which I now read:

"Resolved, That the maintenance inviolate of the rights of the States, and especially of the right of each state to order and control its own domestic institutions according to its own judgment exclusively, is essential to that balance of power on which the perfection and endurance of our political fabric depend; and we denounce the lawless invasion by armed force of the soil of any state or Territory, no matter under what pretext, as among the gravest of crimes."

I now reiterate these sentiments, and in doing so I only press upon the public attention the most conclusive evidence of which the case is susceptible, that the property, peace and security of no section are to be in any wise endangered by the now incoming Administration."

From beginning to end, that Inaugural was a repeated entreaty to the Slave States, not to rush into rebellion and thereby create the peril to their "peculiar institution" which would have no existence if they would be persuaded to abide in loyalty and put their trust in the Constitution and laws He did not even point them to the necessary, inevitable effect of rebellion in creating the very danger for which it was presented as an antidote, knowing that this would be construed and resented as a menace, but concluded as he had begun with a deprecations of war and a prayer for Peace Never on earth before did the Executive of a Nation so plead and entreat that the horrors of Civil War—that conflicting passions and claims be arbitrated at the ballot box, not by the sword And he continued to use in this spirit for weeks, a full week of the fact that the Federal Government in nearly half the ports of the Union were being collected for a hostile government, the public moneys in the Southern sub-treasuries confiscated to the use of that government, the arms, munitions and fortresses of the Republic converted to the uses of defiant treason, and the greater part of the soldiers of the Union surrendered by their own officers to be prisoners of war to rebels who pretended to be at peace with us It was not till those rebels had repelled his civil request to be allowed to send food to the famishing garrison of Fort Sumter that the President decided to send the food anyhow, and leave the rebel masters of his intention—and thus, they say, inaugurated the war

III Fort Sumter having been bombarded and taken, the rebel Secretary of War proclaimed in a speech at Montgomery that they would have Washington within a month. They rushed North Carolina and Virginia into the rebellion and before they had removed the injunction of secrecy on the vote of the Virginia Convention, they made a stealthy swoop at the Norfolk Navy Yard, took it, and robbed the Union of two thousand cannon, besides ships of war and an enormous quantity of munitions and supplies They tried to do the same at Harper's Ferry but the officer in command there was neither a traitor nor an imbecile and destroyed (or at least badly damaged) the arms they hoped to plunder A treacherous massacre in Baltimore and the occupancy of traitors in her councils, prompted the instant burning of bridges and severance of railroad wires at that point, so that President Lincoln found himself isolated and besieged before he was aware that the war had fairly begun His first line notice of hostilities was given him by the appearance of the Young Christians of Baltimore at the White House by deputation requiring him to promise that no more Union to die subsided pass through that city—in other words, that Washington and Maryland should be abandoned to the rebels and the Federal Government retire to the north of the Susquehanna

IV From that hour to the present, every message, every utterance, of President Lincoln has attested his anxiety for the earliest possible restoration of peace The brutal and bloody manifestoes of Jeff Davis, in exalted eternal hatred between the people of the South ern and those of the Northern States, have awakened no echo from him Neither in hour of success and elation nor in seasons of depression and disaster has one bitter or insulting expression aimed at the rebels escaped his lips No one of the belligerents measures would have been condemned as severe, if not unjustifiable, has originated with him, and he has braved the imputation of weakness or mistaken leniency by opposing a sturdy resistance to all such Even the not conscious ring the slaves of rebels whom their masters permit to be used in aid of military operations must be to the Union was a shield by him with reluctance and after much hesitation Until this land no other man has evinced so much and such constant, overruling anxiety that the rebellion should be suppressed in such manner as to permit the peace and complete restoration of fraternal feeling between the North and the South as has Abraham Lincoln And no message of peace—no overture justifying a hope that any other than a disunion peace was attainable—has ever been repelled by him, or has failed to secure his most welcome Witness the success of his arch impostor and swindler, J Wesley Greene who on the strength of one ely presenting himself as an emissary from Jeff Davis bearing proffers of reconciliation, was favored with repeated and confidential interviews and was sent on his way rejoicing with his pockets replenished That the evil was his with regard to many insiders of all those interviews is clear enough, but that they took place, but not ally as he alleges, is undenied and undeniable

V And now a word with regard to real overtures from Richmond Briefly we pronounce them gross lies fabrications, and shall cite our witnesses, hard as it is to prove a negative Mr D Major Chase Barney went to Richmond last autumn on a Peace mission returning in November He talked with sundry persons in the rebel capital, for he is a fluent talker and was well accustomed already with the most of the rebel notables, but he did not venture to approach Jeff Davis and admits that he brought away no indorsement of the "Peace scheme from the highest quarter All he could make out of his conferences was that Secretary Benjamin, Congressmen Boyce and perhaps one or two others, would like to have Peace (who would not?) if the terms were made possible Count Mercier had previously been there as the representative of France, and certainly thought him self authorized by Governor Seward to receive and transmit any overture looking to Peace but he did not bring back any Lord Lyons to his confidential dispatch last November to Earl Russell, reports full and free conferences with New York Democratic leaders to Peace, whence he infers that they were made aware of his disunion foreknowledge thereof But no reports not even an intimation of any response from Richmond to those communications disappeared Now we know that thousands, inc cluding some of Mr Brooks' old friends, cut the Democratic tickets last fall in the belief that the success of a Pro Slavery party to power in the North would awaken peaceable disposition in and lead to consent story overtures from the South and have been surely disappointed of the future of the hard reality to correspond with their fond anticipations We believe the recent course of Mr John Van Buren, among others gives token of such disappointment

VI Early last winter we were approached by parties favorable to peace and attested to contribute to its attainment. Having always been most anxious for the earliest possible Peace consistent with fidelity to those hopes for Humanity which are bound up in the life of the American Republic we listened to the appeal, and resolved to do on utmost toward the achievement of a tolerable Peace To that end we labored faithfully so long as any hope of attaining it remained willing to brave the anger and alienation of valued friends if we might, at whatever personal cost, contribute to an early conclusion of this disgusting war A private letter, which we wrote at that time by his request, to the most active agitator for peace, Mr C Jewett, Esq having been given to the public by him, most unwarrantably, has been widely quoted by our political and personal adversaries as evincing an undue anxiety for peace

Mr Jewett did his best, whatever that may be to discover, through their friends to the loyal States and in the Federal District, what the rebels would do toward Peace, but to no purpose No word of conciliation or arbitration could be evoked from that side They wanted Peace, of course; but Peace by surrender on our side, by Disunion We, after weeks of earnest pursuit of some tenderable Peace proposition from the rebels, were obliged to give it up without having come in sight of any rebel proposition at all—And we here thus justify an our connection that there never was any conciliatory project authorized by the Rebel Chiefs that they chose to submit to the judgment even of the most ardent champions of Peace in the loyal States.

FROM MAJOR FENNO We have a letter from Paymaster Fenno of this city, (our old correspondent F,) dated Memphis May 9th He has been paying off several of the Illinois regiments and we perceive by an official letter from Hon Samuel Hastings, State Treasurer of that State, that he has used his efforts very successfully to induce the soldiers to send home their money on allotments The following is an extract

Interested parties have in many instances opposed the system and done all in their power to prevent its successful operation I take great pleasure in calling public attention to one noble exception, Major Jerem ah Fenno, who has just paid the 32d regiment Wisconsin V ls Last evening I received from Major Fenno a draft on New York for $31,700, the amount allotted by this regiment to the four months for which they have just been paid. The payment was made at Memphis on the 14th inst On the 17th the money was remitted to me with the accompanying papers in the most complete and systematic order, the money was received here on the 23d and will be distributed from his office with the utmost despatch possible I have no personal acquaintance with Major Fenno, but I have no hesitation in saying that he is a gentleman, on ex cellent business man a faithful officer, and a true friend of the soldier and his family, and if his example should be followed by all the army paymasters, the allotment system would be one of the most beneficent and popular institutions in the country

FELL INTO A PIT The Lewiston Journal says that a man named Beane reached that city on the last train Tuesday night, and for some reason as yet unexplained, went up under Beard's saw mill, passed through an intricate walk and walked off or fell off into the wheel pit By good fortune he happened to catch hold of a joist over the bottom of the pit, or he would have been dashed to death by the wheel which is kept running by night as well as by day. How long he stayed there is not known It must have been some time, however, for the workmen in the mill heard cries as of some one in distress for an hour before the source was found

All efforts on the part of the workmen to find the source of the cries were unavailing Mr Graham was called in and he soon found the poor fellow dangling from the beam, the revolutions of the wheel keeping him continually with water Mr G says that Beane gave no account of himself nor did he seem to know how he came there. It was a narrow escape from instant death and a most pitiful pit to fall into

GREAT Spring Opening, AT BICKFORD'S

With opening Spring see BICKFORD comes!
He hangs no flags he beats no drums—
And yet, attracted by his lay
The Finny Tribe their homage pay,
From jakes and river shad and sea
They rush to BICKFORD'S Jubilee
Sweet Herring and juicy Bass
Delight to grace his marble slabs—
Nice Lobsters from old ocean green
From Portland daily come by steam,
In their mail we salt water boiled,
And not with fresh Kenduskeag spoiled;—
Low in its flowing channel runs
MALSKEAG, dazzling with his bright suns
The noble SALMON king of fishes,
The cynosure of all the dishes
And trout which makes the palate glad
The sweet and toothsome river SHAD
These with all or smaller fry
Besides the Pickled Smoked and Dry,
ALSO MACKEREL ever do abound,
When anywhere they can be found

New York, 15th.

The steamer Cosmopolitan, which arrived on Wednesday from Hilton Head brought a large number of discharged soldiers from that department, nearly all of whom are sick, disabled or wounded. Most of them were taken to Davids Island, where upon examination their papers it was found they were discharged from the U S service, but unfortunately their other papers were found to be imperfect, not one of them being signed by the Surgeon at Hilton Head — Consequently, although these papers are all filled out, needing nothing but the signature, these poor fellows cannot obtain their pay from the paymaster, neither can they obtain transportation to their homes or redress until the documents are returned to Hilton Head, there rectified and again returned here. 170 of these men were brought to the New England Rooms, 194, Broadway, today, where they were very promptly received and cared for. Were it not for the existence of this excellent institution they would have been thrown upon such charity as could have been obtained in the streets. The Superintendent of the Rooms Col Howe, immediately took steps to send them to their homes, and with the assistance of the agency of the War Protective Claim Association, the total amount of each soldier's account will be collected and remitted to him, giving each a certificate ofdebt thereof

Some 200 at Hilton Head, remain at Davids Island, who will be brought to the New England Rooms, on Saturday or Monday, and for them the same offices will be performed.

The men are from every loyal State, and embrace all branches of the service. Many of them are heads of families.

The deprivation of their pay for a month or more will be felt with great severity. The person guilty of such a dereliction of duty, has committed an act of great injustice to these sick and disabled soldiers and their needy and anxious families, and one which the government will not be slow to rebuke with a just severity. The facts will be forwarded to the proper authorities

Correspondence of the Whig & Courier.

Augusta, May 15, 1863

The official return of casualties in the Third Regiment has been received, accompanied by a letter from Colonel Lakeman, dated May 9th, from which I make, by permission, a few extracts:

"Shortly after sunset (May 2d) we were ordered to be centre and remained there, in line of battle, till near midnight, when the brigade was ordered to charge on a force supposed to be in our front. The regiment, with the brigade, advanced slowly to the charge and a terrific fight ensued, which lasted nearly an hour. We succeeded in taxing the first and second line of earthworks and held them till daylight on the following morning, notwithstanding the stubborn resistance of the enemy who were five times our number." "On Sunday, morn at dawn, the enemy occupying the woods to our right and rear, opened a terrible fire upon the brigade, which we returned, and by order, left the breastwork and retired to Chancellorsville." "I cannot speak in praise sufficient of the gallant conduct of the officers and men of the 3d. God bless them! They never flinched, but I pressed onward under a most galling fire of infantry and artillery, and gave back, round for round, though the odds were against us; and while I fell to death in the noble manner the commands of our gallant General (S. Hobart Ward) were obeyed, I do not neglect to sigh for the gallant and daring spirits who were cut down in the fearful encounter. I lost there four of my officers and fifty-six men wounded and missing."

After the action of Sunday, in which the 3d participated, losing Lieutenant Cox killed and eight men, the regiment retired to the second line of defences; but on Monday morning, were again advanced to the front on the first line of defence. "Here," says Colonel Lakeman, "the enemy's shells came thick and fast, and several men were more or less slightly wounded in this position the enemy made three different attacks upon us, and were repulsed at each assault. The conduct of the regiment in the front, centre and rear was admirable, for we were seen to be all points, and the brigade has been highly complimented by the Commanding General for the gallantry of the officers and men."

☞ Rumor says the Copperheads are in a quandary about a candidate for Governor.—They will ask no questions provided the man proposes a sound on the negro question. If Mr. Bradbury returns from New Orleans uncontaminated, he may be run a second heat, but if he shall have allowed contrabands to thaw into that the Union must be saved though slavery go to the wall, he will be cut adrift. If such accidents are favorable but New Orleans has wrought wonders upon Northern democrats, and even Mr B may not be proof against the softening influence of a Southern sun.—Press.

THE OLD HOMESTEAD TONIC.

...ST our possessions be what they may—mansion palaces, proud lands, magnificent plate or caskets of "precious stones"—they all sink in the balance as against Heaven's great boon HEALTH, and that cannot be enjoyed without it. The language of nature affords that whoever would enjoy the pleasures of food, the fragrance of flowers and landscapes, the joys of companionship, the richness of literature, or the honors of station and renown, must preserve their health. And yet how little is it valued, and how carelessly preserved. The stomach is the receptacle of all nourishment, and the fountain from which all parts of the body derive their sustenance. When sold injurious food enters the stomach, acute sympathy disorganizes all other organs, and disease more or less painful must follow. The laws of nature cannot be violated with impunity. Right society, intemperate living, irregularity of meals, and a disordered appetite will gradually destroy the power and activity of the stomach. How many ladies and gentlemen eat and drink disease at late suppers, and arise in the morning with headache, loss of appetite, feeling fatigued, unrefreshed, feverish, low spirited, weak and incapacitated to perform any mental or physical duty, and dream not this is the beginning of that horrid disease,

DYSPEPSIA,

The Medical Faculty has exhausted its research for compounds in preparing appliances and inventing ...ensive disarrangements. Certain ingredients were well established as possessing both ...ical qualities, among these were Gentian, ...ba and St. Croix Rum. But still a specific ... wanting, and regularity could not be obtained. An invalid physician, sojourning in the tropical island of St. Croix observed the habits of the natives, and gathered from them the receipt for the final accomplishment of this most important one. Its component parts largely incorporated in the vegetable diet of that island, produced the effect without a proper knowledge of the cause. The article was first manufactured as a private medicine. Its effects were so admirably that it is now being produced simultaneously in almost every climate under the name of "Dr. Drake's Plantation Bitters, or Old Homestead Tonic." They are with the power of a medicine and are taken daily as a beverage with the pleasure of a luxury. The sale of these Bitters was at first confined to our extensive Southern cities, but they are now becoming well known throughout the world, and are recommended with the most unbounded confidence for all complaints originating from a disordered stomach such as Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Nervous affections, Loss of Appetite, Intermittent Fevers, Diarrhœa, Sour Stomach, Headache, Fever and Ague, Weakness, &c.

As a nursing appetizer and after a meal it is, they are held in high estimation, and whom all before taste the side board of every family. They are also much related upon in the Tropics for Sprains, Rheumatism and Dropsy.

...ers may be your own judge. The ... of all these celebrated Bitters we submit a part of the formula of the same, of which they are composed. St. Croix Rum. The acknowledged excellence of pure St. Croix Rum are well known, and it has long been recommended by physicians as a most valuable article. It is manufactured from the Sugar Cane. The Rum of Bitters we use is made expressly for us from the choicest of the foreign qualities of this article, to be found in Europe and Asia. Extract of Calisaya Bark. This is from the Manufactory of Messrs. ... in his extensive South American Establishment.

CASCARILLA BARK is another important ingredient. It was known in Germany as early as 1780, and much used as a substitute for Peruvian Syrup. It is employed as a febrile agent in fast and feeble Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhœa, Chronic Dysentery, and Bleeding of the stomach and bowels. DANDELION is used for the same purposes as the above, and when in excess it is highly esteemed as an aperient and diuretic. The use of this article in connection with the above, tends to the establishment of a healthy action and digestion of the digestive organs generally. CHAMOMILE FLOWERS are used for enfeebled digestion and want of appetite. WINE OF ORANGE is a most grateful and very great stimulant, and is especially valuable in low fevers, rheumatism and Scotch ale. It may be used in ... DRY PEPPERS, an aromatic stimulant and tonic, highly invigorating to persons debilitated by ... the palate and stomach. ANISE, an aromatic carminative, creating fresh ... and milk. Now Singapore. I will be by railroad or upon the inland rivers where the great change of water is such a terrible cause of incipient disease the Bitters, intermittent, Ague and Chill Fevers may find a certain reliance, if they protect themselves with these Bitters. The valley of the Western rivers, filled with decayed vegetable and animal matter, is quite sure to produce disease unless guarded by an antidote, such as is found in the Plantation Bitters.

Esteemed Friend: Will thou send me another Case of the Bitters? Nothing has proven so beneficial or agreeable to my invalid wife and myself, as the Plantation Bitters.
